

international journal of franchising law

The International journal of franchising law is a unique source of legal analysis and practical guidance for legal practitioners, corporate counsel and executives in international franchising.

- Keep up to date with the latest developments on the legal issues involved in establishing, protecting and controlling an international franchise network.
- Track developments in franchising legislation, case law and policy changes affecting franchising globally in established and emerging franchise markets.
- Benefit from detailed practical guidance and authoritative commentary on recent developments in franchising law around the world and the way in which franchising is impacted by developments in competition, consumer, dispute resolution, finance, foreign direct investment, intellectual property, marketing, data protection, and tax laws around the globe.

The journal is unique in the way that it synthesises analysis of the regulatory environment within which franchising operates around the world with consideration of the strategic context within which it is used by business to deliver pragmatic guidance that is of value to practitioners and academics alike.

Published bi-monthly since 2003, this unique resource provides feature articles, expert comment on developments in specific jurisdictions, reports on significant cases, and regular reports on legislative and policy initiatives.
